"Best-in-Class companies identified by Aberdeen surveys and interviews were found to be twice as likely as others to manage deployed services proactively. 100% of these users saw year-over-year performance increases of their SOA applications, while 80% enjoyed improved compliance with internal and external service level agreements (SLAs)," said Michael Dortch, Senior Analyst at Aberdeen. "These findings demonstrate and underscore how solutions such as Tevron's CitraTest APM (<http://www.tevron.com/citratest-apm.asp>) can help companies to maximize the business value of their IT investments by monitoring application performance proactively and comprehensively."
