Tevron® Releases Centralized APM Enterprise Alerting Console.

Tevron offers the ONLY testing & End to End monitoring solutions that fully support EVERY enterprise application that is accessible from a Windows based machine. No application is left behind.

Nashua, New Hampshire, April 3, 2009 – Tevron, the global leader in APM and testing solutions, today announced the release of the Centralized APM Enterprise Alerting Console for its APM solutions. This solution delivers sophisticated, global, centralized real-time alerting when application and system health begin to perform poorly or below acceptable SLA levels. Every environment, every business process, and every application can be monitoring and supported. Compared to the legacy management products available on the market, this solution is more scalable, more flexible, supports all environments with a single technology, more cost effective, and easier to maintain and deploy.

“Through the use of Tevron’s APM Solutions, IT Managers can better manage and enhance the overall customer experience in regard to application performance and availability. As a result, Business Managers get an IT environment that is aligned with the business along with increased IT efficiency and profitability,” says Jay Labadini, Vice President.
